

Where to Find 1880 DDD Supplemental Census Records

If your ancestor's 1880 US census listing has a mark in columns 15 through 20 (indicating whether he was sick or temporarily disabled; blind; deaf and dumb; idiotic; insane; or maimed, crippled, bedridden or otherwise disabled), look for his name in the 1880 supplemental schedules of "defective, dependent and delinquent classes."

These "DDD" schedules, taken for only the 1880 census, give more information on individuals with physical handicaps or mental illness; prisoners; and those who lived in institutions for the homeless.

You won't always find these special schedules with regular, or "population," census schedules. Several states' DDD schedules are on National Archives or Family History Library microfilm; others are in state archives or large genealogical libraries. Locations we've found for DDD records are listed here by state (Web site URLs are linked). We recommend contacting the repository before visiting to confirm availability of the records.

Keep in mind this isn't a comprehensive listing. Check with the state archives or library in your ancestor's state if you're having difficulty finding DDD schedules.
